Performance Report #: 6
Act 1: 1 hr 26 minutes
Act 2: 1 hr 2 minutes
Next Performance: Wednesday, July 13th at 2:00pm

General:

1. Today we had a very supportive audience! They seemed extremely engaged and laughed a lot during a few specific moments of the show. They enjoyed Mr. Henri's lines in 1.1 as the cobbler, laughed a good deal at Casca's line "It was Greek to me!", and laughed with Cassius' line "This was an ill beginning of the night". Overall, the cast had a good energy but clearly were worn out from a long week. There were a few places where lines were skipped but the cast did a great job being supportive and helping one another stay focused and move the scenes forward.
2. Today Emily Kurash gave the curtain speech instead of Doug.
3. Thank you!

Scenic:

1. In order to make sure the gonfalons fit nicely for each show, Stage Management has added testing the positions to our pre-show duties.
2. Please see Props Note #1.
3. Thank you!

Lighting:

1. LX 339 was called late by Stage Management error.
2. Mr. Rojas was out of his pool of light in LX cue 241 again today and also took a cross extremely late. Both blocking notes were given after the show and will be corrected for next performance.
3. Thank you!

Sound:

1. SQ 103 was taken early due to board op error.
2. Thank you!

Costumes:

1. No notes, thank you!

Props:

1. At the top of 1.1, the gonfalon fabric fell off the tearable gonfalon upon its placement into the boardwalk. Mr. Henri immediately picked up the fabric and carried it around with him during the scene and held it up taut at the end of the line for Mr. Murphey to grab from him. It was a good save on stage! We believe the actors simply caught the fabric with their hands while securing the gonfalon, the fabric had been tied correctly.
2. The blood seemed to be very sticky tonight and proved difficult to disperse on stage.
3. The handoff of Mr. J. Johnson's cleaned sword in Act 2 was 2 scenes late but was still able to make it on stage. It has been addressed with crew and stage management and will not be an issue moving forward.
4. Thank you!

Changeover:

1. No notes, thank you!
2. Thank you!

Line Notes:

1. Stage Management is maintaining an updated script with line changes. If you need more information please let us know
